The Cup was shared

This competition, the forerunner to the Southern Counties Cup, was open to clubs in the Dumfries & Galloway region. The trophy was donated by Rev A Churchill, an Englishman who resided for a time in of Moffat. When he left to live in Reigate in 1881, he and his sister donated a trophy for competition, initially to be played between clubs in Dumfriesshire, but soon extended to clubs from the whole region. Fifteen clubs entered the first tournament, and it became the south of Scotland's premier competition. By the mid-1890s though, after 5th Kirkcudbrightshire RV won in 1895, the Churchill Cup was allowed to lapse. The trophy was soon returned to Rev Churchill who, from accounts was dismayed to find that football had atrophied somewhat in Dumfries & Galloway area. He later returned the trophy to a silversmith who erased the names of the winners.
