Edinburgh Athletic had been known as Manor Thistle until 1997. In 2008 they faced the prospect of having to re-apply for admission to the League because of mal-administration, but merged with amateur club Leith Athletic, retaining their place whilst taking the name of the latter.

After this season there was a large increase in membership as many clubs transferred their membership over from Junior football. The League was divided into three conferences with a play-off between the section winners determining the overall champions.

From 2019 the league was re-structured again with a Premier Division and two First Divisions.

On 13 March 2020, the league was suspended due to the 2019–20 covid-19 outbreak before it was officially curtailed on 24 April 2020. Bo'ness United were declared champions of the Premier Division on a 'points per game' method while Lothian Thistle Hutchison Vale and Tynecastle were declared winners of their respective First Division conferences.

League Cup no competition

On 11 January 2021 the league was suspended by the Scottish FA due to the covid-19 pandemic and on 11 April 2021 the clubs voted to declare the season null and void.
